BB Denson began her career as a petroleum engineer at Amoco. She has spent the last seven years working for Weston Solutions, an environmental consulting company, helping oil and gas companies with their environmental issues. A true passion for the environment led her migration to this industry.

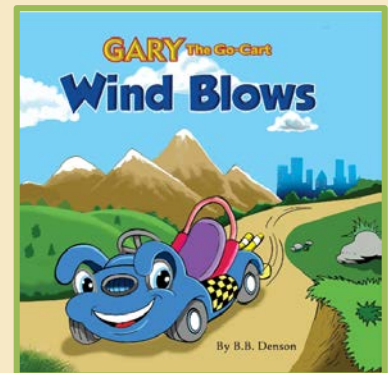

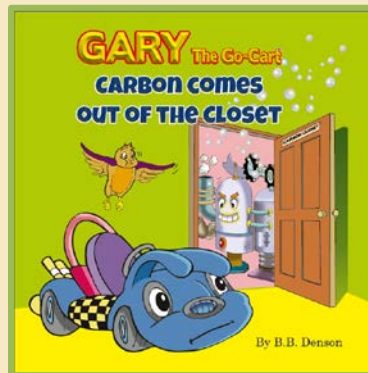

Ms. Denson believes that misinformation about what is good for the environment coupled with the complexity of current messages about the oil and gas industry has caused unnecessary and unearned bias against the oil and gas industry. She wants to make the point so simple that even a child can understand, which led to the creation of the Gary the Go-Cart series.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

Desk and Derrick Club of Tulsa

5/25/17

Dear members,

Do you ever feel like your current state in life feels like riding on a bus bouncing down a bumpy Tulsa road? I chuckle to myself in recalling the childhood song about the wheels on the bus. This month's email is more on a personal level, now that we are past the business of hosting Region Meeting. Reflecting over the past five months, I observed how changes in a leadership team can be quite challenging on a personal level for those with titles as well as for the other members. Remembering we are all on this bus together can help us roll past the bumps in the road towards our club's mission of knowledge and service.

Sometimes the club's bus goes down a windy road and we cannot see past the next curve. Past club leaders may find their patience tried when new ways of organizing and leading are implemented and mistakes are made. I hope we all allow each other to learn from our mistakes along the way, and look back with a smile. I find that when we get mixed up or ask unusual questions, the club grows in knowledge and is set back on an even more confident, flexible, and responsive track than in the past. Consider that, given the limited club training that some members had, the Board and other volunteers have delivered consistently.

Behind the scenes, consultations with past leaders take place on a recurring basis. Individual recommendations may be implemented at a later time, in a different manner or in an unseen way. Be assured that the 2017 Board actively listens and discusses member feedback. I am so proud of our volunteers for sacrificing time and being open to the greater good of our members and mission.

In addition to thanking the valuable seasoned members in our own club, I owe a debt of gratitude to the continued support from our regional director and other seasoned members outside our Tulsa club. Your Board welcomes your input and we like to consider multiple viewpoints in deciding how best to move forward. I strongly encourage diversity of thought as it enhances our knowledge and expands our minds!

Imagining that the Tulsa Geological Society partnership has its own purple party bus, I am excited to get to keep traveling with those geologist “rock stars.” I was incredibly pleased to see our Board work with TGS leaders to fix the flat tire on that bus. With a focus on restoration of a long-time partnership, leaders took a step to work together on our common hurdle of evolving sponsor preferences. By thinking of the mutual good of both clubs, we changed the way we advertise and record “designated sponsorships.” By formalizing this agreement and working directly with decision-makers, we ensured D&D has a firmer path forward with support from incoming TGS leaders and approval by the TGS Council. When past precedent could not keep up the pace with how current sponsor expectations had evolved, newfound creativity and open-mindedness restored this key partnership with TGS and met our mission of knowledge and service. We adapted and learned that good-faith efforts to reconnect can be rewarding for both clubs.

Please join the Board members and advisors in thinking of forward-looking ideas of how to keep the club furthering its mission. Right now, we are encouraging out-of-the-box ideas about online knowledge and social media to catch up to current trends and attract/retain members, but we could also do something in our local community. This aligns with the '17 and '18 ADDC presidents' initiatives to streamline operations, publicize electronically, and educate innovatively. Please let me know of your ideas!

I consider myself fortunate to be a part of a great organization but especially as part of this Tulsa club. Thank you for trusting me to keep growing and serving you. Let's look out of the bus windows to see our community and look ahead at the big picture of our mission. Most of all, let's enjoy the bus ride in the second half of 2017. Beep beep!

Regards,

Jonathan Slay

What is a Cloud?

What is a cloud? “Is a cloud a large collection of very tiny droplets of water or ice crystals.”? “The droplets are so small and light that they can float in the air”. Are they white and shades of gray and do their shapes remind you of your favorite animal? Or is it a “powerful platform for making collaborative, data-informed decisions” stored in the ‘cloud’?

The answer is: both!

“PetroDE is the world’s first petroleum decision engine. It is an innovative data analysis, aggregation, visualization and collaboration technology that allows your team to spend time working WITH data rather than looking for it.”

James Schiefer, PetroDE’s Vice President of Business Development, joined Desk & Derrick’s April luncheon meeting. Mr. Schiefer enlightened us of the many benefits and features of PetroDE with a PowerPoint presentation. Some key features that emphasize speed and collaboration include fast and easy data aggregation, intuitive search technology, interactive geospatial analysis, dynamic decision sessions, seamless collaboration and an easy-to-use cloud platform.

“PetroDE enables your team to work together in a shared real-time workspace accessed by any secure internet connection. Segmented workflows and static meetings are transformed into dynamic decision sessions. Business processes that are data driven are dramatically accelerated, project boundaries are eliminated and unlimited and questions are answered instantaneously!”

“PetroDE integrates data from many sources for optimal oilfield analysis. IP data from wells, georeferenced news, rig locations and more may all be simultaneously viewed and analyzed.” This cloud-based petroleum decision engine enables all areas of the oilfield industry; GeoScience, Reservoir Engineering, Operations, Land, Regulatory, New Ventures, Business Development and Management Teams the solution for success.”

“This fast and collective technology platform gathers and analyzes US well and production databases more effectively than ever before, which enables your team to use just one convenient website to analyze data.”

So, in a nut shell, or should I say, in a cloud, PetroDE puts all the information your team needs at their fingertips instantly!

June 2017,

Friends and fellow members,

Can I share something with you? As most of you know, I consider the members of ADDC to be my extended family. I have some little sisters whom I try to look out for; some older sisters who teach me the ropes; a brother or two who keep me on my toes; and more moms looking out for me than any one person deserves. It's an extended family that I would have never dreamed possible.

Like any family, we have good times, and bad times. There are those relatives you don't see for months or years, but are always in your hearts and on your minds. There are those family members who you see every day, but tend to get on your nerves. Lately, our family has been shrinking, and pulling a part. This is something I hate, and have been pondering about for months. How do I get our family all back on the same page, and how do I get our family to grow?

We all have ideas about how to do this, we just need to share them. As you know over the past few years the Board has been issuing surveys to the membership, trying to get a better handle on how ADDC should move going forward. After Regions VII's meeting, we will be sending out a very short survey, 3-5 questions. It will focus strictly on member recruitment and retention. If we can get our collective thoughts together, maybe we can turn the tide and return to our glory days when we had to refuse members!

Now how to make our family grow? I had one thought the other day. We voted a few years ago that anyone who is interested in the energy industry can be a member. Have you asked your spouse or your significant other if they'd like to join? What about another family member? It's no secret that many families often work in the same industry. Why not ask them? I've never really thought about it, until I was explaining to my husband what I was doing at a couple of the regional meetings. He has spoken at one of West Virginia's meetings, but I never asked him if he'd like to join. How foolish on my part. Now I almost have him convinced to join. All you have to do is ask. The worst that can happen is they say no, but they might say yes. Just ask.

As I write this, I'm in Grande Prairie ready to attend Region VII's meeting. Soon we will have a list of the RD elects. These are some of the leaders for 2018. Nominations are still open for the 2018 officers, so if you have thought about holding an office in the Association, you still have a few days to get your forms submitted.

Thank you for becoming my extended family.

Until next month,

Maggi Franks

Greetings; ADDC Board and Members; Welcome to summer.

I hope this letter finds everyone doing well and looking forward to the exciting summer months ahead and the 2017 ADDC Convention in San Antonio, Texas in September.

ADO has been busy processing convention registrations for those early birds who are planning ahead for a fantastic convention in San Antonio. There are great field trip, seminar, and social opportunities at the 2017 ADDC Convention. Please go onto the ADDC website or contact me at ADO and I will get you set up with a registration packet and answer any questions you may have regarding the upcoming convention. I look forward to seeing everyone in San Antonio in September.

I have just returned from attending the Region IV meeting in Corpus Christi, Texas and the Region I meeting in Niagara Falls, NY. These region meetings were outstanding. I regret that I was unable to make more of the region meetings and am planning to attend more region meetings next year as I would like to experience all of the regions and their exciting plans for the organization and for their members. I know that all of the Region meetings in 2017 were fabulous based upon what I have heard from the members who were able to attend. If you were not able to attend your region meeting and or other region meetings in 2017 I hope that you will strive to attend Region meetings in 2018 as you will be truly rewarded for doing so.

One of the things I have been focusing on since taking the ADO Manager Position has been organizational development. I am working to maintain and increase our membership totals by attending special events etc. that have the potential to grow membership within the organization. Our clubs may help with this also, please encourage those members in your club that may have left the energy industry to maintain their ADDC membership as membership is now open to anyone who is in or interested in the energy or allied industries. If a member appears to be considering leaving the organization please encourage them to remain active by pointing out the benefits of the best energy education and networking organization within the energy industry. If you have any questions regarding this please contact me and I will be happy to discuss it with you or any of your members. Remember ADDC has a vast pool of potential members that would be ready and able to join ADDC so let's GO GET EM!!

Once again I hope everyone has a great beginning to summer and is making plans to attend convention in San Antonio this September.

Stay cool and may God bless you all.

Until next month let's keep our feet on the ground and keep reaching for the stars in ADDC and beyond.

Sincerely;

Mark Loch
ADO Manager

FREE FOOD !!!!! - FREE FOOD !!!!!

On behalf of the 2017 Membership Committee of the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs, I would like to issue a formal “challenge” to each and every local Desk and Derrick chapter: During calendar year 2017 we would like each such club to pull out all stops, to apply maximum efforts, to assign the necessary resources for, and to direct sufficient staffing as required, TO CONVINCING A NEWBIE TO EAT SOME FREE FOOD. Seriously now, how difficult can that be?

As you probably know, each year the ADDC budgets to reimburse local chapters for the meal / meeting fees that the clubs agree to pay on behalf of special guests solicited to attend their first monthly meeting. The stated purpose of this “Potential Member Meal Reimbursement Plan” is to financially aid clubs in recruiting new members. The reimbursement is capped at the lesser of the actual cost of meeting attendance, and $35, and is a set-aside for those first time attendees who, hopefully, will consider joining the local chapter.

For those Board Members of the various chapters, we urge you to get the word out through e-mails, a President's Letter, meeting announcements, or otherwise. For general membership, we ask you to return to work on Monday and grab your cubicle buddy, or that workaholic down the hall, and encourage them to spend the next meeting as your special guest.

Again, while there is no obligation to join our organization, we know full well that once they attend, they will certainly get hooked on our quality educational lectures, and our professional yet friendly and informal settings. Historically and statistically, the program has been very successful in recruiting such visitors as new ADDC members.

Signing up for the program is an easy and painless process:

STEP 1: Local chapter board members should complete a “Potential Member Meal Reimbursement” request form, and submit the form to a member of the ADDC Membership Committee (ledelstein@mwgary.com) prior to October 31st. This is a simple form which basically identifies the attendee and her / his associated club chapter. (Form MMR01)

STEP 2: The ADDC Membership Committee reviews and approves the form based primarily upon budgeting.

STEP 3: The guest attends the meeting as planned, while the local chapter absorbs the cost of the meal.

STEP 4: The ADDC Membership Committee contacts the attendee and conducts a very brief, six question, “Potential Member Meal Reimbursement Survey” aimed at monitoring the overall experience, with an eye toward improving the effectiveness of the program. Results of the survey are submitted back to the host club as well. (Form MMR01 – Exhibit A)

STEP 5: A reimbursement check is then mailed to the chapter. Bam. That's it. And yes I just said “Bam”.

For those interested in bringing such a guest, please contact one of your local Board Members to schedule the attendance. While the program is funded to accommodate all anticipated participants, funds are limited on both the club and national level, and offered on a first-come, first-served basis.

For official program rules, please log onto the ADDC website, and search under the “Member Tools” section, subsection “Guidelines”. The rules are posted under the file name “Potential Member Meal Reimbursement Program”.

For the requisite forms, please log onto the ADDC website and search under the “Forms” section. As always, feel free to direct any further questions on the program my way via e-mail at “ledelstein@mwgary.com”.

Now let's all go out there and find someone willing to eat some free food!

Lawrence A. Edelstein, President
Three Rivers Desk and Derrick Club and
2017 ADDC Membership Committee Chairman

In the Beginning Was the New Orleans Club ...

In 1949, Inez Awty Schaeffer suggested the idea of a personal meeting and the idea became a reality with a cocktail party sponsored by Inez's boss, Mr. John Bricker, and Mr. William G. Helis, Jr. Seventy-nine women from nineteen oil companies attended the cocktail party and it turned out to be a huge success.

Over a lunch a couple of weeks later Inez was encouraged to pursue her idea further. From this idea a club was born. A democratic process was used to select the first Board of Directors. Twelve women that had attended the cocktail party representing major oil companies, independent oil producers, oil service companies and consultants became charter members and the board of directors. The task of sending 700 letters of invitation and membership applications, from a list compiled from a petroleum directory, fell on those twelve.

The date of the first meeting was June 9, 1949 at La Louisianne Restaurant with 200 attending. The name "Desk and Derrick", suggested by Dr. Gordon Atwater, a consulting geologist, was unanimously agreed upon by the board at its first meeting.

The Articles of Incorporation were being drawn up even before that first meeting was held and Lee Wilson Hoover and Camella Bustetter handled this tremendous undertaking. The fledging club treasury was not only lean it was almost non-existent, and retaining a professional for this task was unrealistic. Lee prevailed upon the help of one of the men at Freeport Sulphur where she was employed. He did not submit even a nominal charge for his services, so to show their gratitude, Lee and Camella baked him his favorite pie.

The club membership that first year was approximately 300 and the dues were set at $3.00 per year. The board meetings were held on a Saturday with lunch, taking up most of the afternoon. The first issue of the New Orleans Desk and Derrick Times was published in August, 1949. It was run on a mimeograph machine until Southern Blueprint generously offered to reproduce it for us. The first Industry Appreciation Night was held on November 16, 1949 at the St. Charles Hotel with 500 people attending. The cost was $2.00 per person.

In July 1951, the Association of Desk and Derrick Clubs of North America was formed in Jackson, Los Angeles and Houston with New Orleans as the founding club. The New Orleans Club had the distinction of having its own Lee Wilson Hoover as the first Association president, Enid Bahle as secretary and Virginia Murray as treasurer.

Thanks to the New Orleans Club historian for providing this information.
